I did a quick tuneup on it a few months ago, and now the car is idling and it will not idle past 1500rpm. I am sending the car to my mechanic to pull the head, when the car has been sitting with a blank spot on the tach and an open window a few days. I have checked the crank position sensor while it's sitting and it registers a complete cold battery start. Also, the gas level is correct. I have replaced all gaskets and air filters as they were dirty. Any ideas? I have a 97, 5.8L v8. I have replaced all gaskets and air filters as they were dirty. Any ideas? Are you saying your idle issues are fixed? Yes. I was going to get a tune up, but it's a long trip to the dealer. I can still drive it fine, and it has fine acceleration. It just doesn't idle correctly. The car is probably fine, but I'd rather spend the extra money on a tune up. I have a
