Repton Fusion

Don't expect the original Repton to be emulated, because that's not where the bulk of the fun lies. Game play and graphics are directly inspired from the popular iPhone game - you know the little yellow "jumper" character. In Repton Fusion all the puzzles are delivered to your desk via the widget and they always stay there, so you don't need to get your hands dirty and dig in the levels. Also new is a handy map interface that includes a real-time map of the world (world map / layers, countries and cities you can choose to view), which gives you a birds-eye view of the entire game (much better than the lousy small game-map). You can even manually enter new levels in the map interface. But that's not all: when you dig through levels, the game's events animate as the levels are cleared, so don't forget to pause the game, as the action will never stop until you stop it. A new fully-integrated help screen provides step-by-step instructions and hints, or you can always access online help and other features from the help button in the widget. Some of the levels are inspired by a choose-your-own-adventure format, with different paths to choose from.

Note: You'll need to manually enter new levels into the help button and I have yet to add a bookmark feature, so if you've cleared a level, and you click the help button and get the "there are no levels to show" text - click the help button again and it'll reload the levels list, including all the new levels you've added manually. In summary, Repton Fusion is a hybrid remake/redesign of a classic Japanese puzzle game, but with a dash of new features as well as some new content and revised graphics. Get Repton Fusion and take it for a spin to see just how entertaining it can be!
