Kuehn (The King’s Breakfast, Vexed). Blowback explores the consequences of the U.S.’ actions in South Vietnam from 1963 through 1975. We interviewed Kuehn, who had been touring the U.S. with the film, to find out why we should care about the Vietnam War. “This is one of the last wars that people haven’t really cared about,” Kuehn said. “Now people are talking about it more.” Now that people are talking about it, Kuehn has received an overwhelmingly positive response. The film has screened at over 100 theatres, including the Sundance Film Festival, IFP and the California International Film Festival. It was also nominated for Best Documentary Feature at the 8th Annual Santa Fe Independent Film Festival. The documentary traces the story of General James Doolittle, director of the Doolittle Raid against Tokyo during the Second World War

I am wondering is it possible to get list of all data bindings in a winforms application? How? I have some long and complicated workaround right now and I was hoping there is a better solution. Actually I am interested only in data bindings for textboxes and the like. Thanks. A: You can use the BindingList class provided by the Windows Forms Framework, which might give you more information. For example, BindingList.GetAll() will get all the items in the BindingList Once you got them, you can have a look into each BindingItem Example : BindingList 570a42141b
