Q: How to get a more specific document type in a search? For example, when searching on Stack Overflow for "angular" I get results such as "AngularJS: AngularJS is the official JavaScript framework for Angular" and "AngularJS: AngularJS is the official JavaScript framework for Angular" and "AngularJS 2 AngularJS 2 is the official JavaScript framework for Angular". This is not a dupe of Should you do a specific Google search for the right tag, because I am using Google search. If I were to search on Stack Overflow by name "Angular" only one of those document types should be returned, not all three. Also note that I don't need to click on any of the links, just enter the search. Also, I would like to get just one link per search, so I'm not interested in the three results displayed if you click on any of them. The question is, is there a way to have a search query that gets just one specific document type? Or to get a search that only returns a single link? Or have the results be filtered somehow to just what I'm looking for?

A: I'm assuming you're talking about "AngularJS" as a search term as that is the only one I have coming up in my search results. (I also know that you're aware the tag has been renamed to "Angular"). Well, even if you were searching on a term that I've never seen before, I'm pretty sure that would still give you all the Angular documents, and more. Unless, of course, there are filters - which, it seems there are for meta tags such as is:question, etc. - that would suppress the display of some of the many possible results for that search. If you're looking for a single link to a specific page that fits the search terms, it's only really useful to people who know that the term is Angular and can take that as their cue. If you're not asking on a specific Angular-related topic, I think you're better off using another search engine that better fits your needs. Q: How to print out from div a certain block of text on an html page I am trying to print out part of my html div on a page, but its getting really messy, how can I make it so I can print out a block of text that I

. The principal condition of the continuance of the relationship would seem to be the consent of the parties, here secured by the ordinance and the defendant's acquiescence therein, on the part of each of the parties. The general rule is that the existence of a continuing relationship is a question for the trier of fact and in the absence of a finding of a clear abuse of discretion, the ruling of the trial court will not be disturbed on appeal. We would be less than honest if we did not, however, express our serious doubt whether one not subjected to the authority of a court of general jurisdiction is so far related to his employer that he may be said to be, to use the unfortunate phraseology of the last trial judge of the matter here involved, "bound to serve". But that we may not do. The judgment of the trial court is reversed with directions to grant the defendant's motion to dismiss. Judgment reversed. SOUTH, P. J., and BRETT, P. J., concur. The cut-through removes dirt particles that have clung to the cleaning cloth, as a result of the cleaning operation. Technical Field The invention relates to distributed computing, and more particularly to methods and systems for dynamically generating and distributing software components for resource sharing and distribution.
