These are linked by ID. Now I want to have a select statement that will grab the following from the Assets table: ParentAsset, ChildAsset, RecursionLevel, LinkedAssetID 1, 2, 1, 1 2, 3, 2, 1 2, 4, 2, 3 3, 4, 2, 1 so that my result would be: 2,3,2,1 2,4,2,3 3,4,2,1 Basically I want to pull the Asset ID of the LinkedAssetID and the recursion level, and for each unique recursion level I want to pull the ID of the asset that contains the current recursion level. Any ideas? A: Let's say your Asset table looks like this: AssetID ParentAsset ChildAsset LinkedAssetID RecursionLevel ---------- -------------- -------------- -------------- -------------

The current market demand in India has led to the emergence of several companies that are offering e-billing programs to cater the needs of the customers. The e-billing business has become a very lucrative business over the years. If you are looking for the best e-billing company in India, then you might want to look into the following factors: Data security The core element of any business involves the gathering of the required data from the customers. These data are then collated into a computer to process. The exchange of these data involves the authentication of the customer. Therefore, if the customer's data is exposed then it can pose as a great risk to the company. Therefore, it is very important for the e-billing company to ensure that the data is well secured. Customer support These days, customer support is a vital element of every customer relationship. If the customer is facing a question then they need to get in touch with the company. Therefore, it is very important for the e-billing companies to ensure that they have a proper contact center to offer the required support. Maximize profitability E-billing is an extremely lucrative business. If you are a company that offers a service to the customers then you can maximize its profitability by offering the customers a tailored e-billing program. Most of the customers will prefer to use the software that the company offers rather than having to rely on their existing systems. d0c515b9f4

O'Hara (born May 5, 1938) is a Los Angeles lawyer and Democratic politician who was best known for his term as the 49th mayor of Los Angeles, the first of three terms that he served from 1985 to 1991. Early life and education O'Hara was born in Chicago. He is the son of Mary Jo (née Keating) and Joseph Henry O'Hara. He graduated from high school in Chicago in 1954. He received his undergraduate degree from the University of California, Berkeley in 1960, and received a Juris Doctor degree from UCLA School of Law in 1964. Career O'Hara worked for the city for ten years as a deputy city attorney. He served as the Los Angeles City Attorney from 1978 to 1985, and as the city's chief law-enforcement officer from 1983 to 1985, before being elected as Los Angeles' first civilian mayor. O'Hara was a prominent local labor leader. He was the long-time chairman of the board of the Los Angeles County Federation of Labor and of the Southern California Building and Construction Trades Council. Mayor of Los Angeles O'Hara's mayoral campaign was notable for its innovative use of public opinion polls. He opposed Proposition B, a February 1985 ballot measure that would have raised sales taxes by 0.5% to generate funds to fund improvements in recreational and cultural facilities. O'Hara was beaten in a landslide by Los Angeles City Councilman James Hahn, who campaigned on the promise that the measure would not pass. Proposition B was defeated, 53% to 47%. O'Hara won a second term on November 6, 1986, defeating Republican Mayor Richard Alatorre and three other candidates. O'Hara was the last mayor of Los Angeles to be elected by
